

Using Data Analysis to Improve Case Management

Focus Spending, Predict Case Costs and Mitigate Risk.

Bain & Barkley uses data reporting to help clients efficiently and consistently manage their cases. At the initiation of an engagement, we examine the clients' long term legal and business objectives, target different possible conclusions for each case and set the tactical goals to achieve strategic objectives. We then provide weekly or monthly reports with statistical information on case activity that supports claims management and decision making.

Our customizable client reports can include any combination of the following information:

- Cases in active litigation
- Venue
- Jurisdiction
- Litigation Costs to Date
- Number of Days Open
- Cases Settled

Flexible Fee Arrangements.

Our focus is on quickly resolving cases, when possible, and giving sound strategic litigation and business advice. We use flexible hourly and fixed-fee billing structures to create efficient and effective litigation results. All of Bain & Barkley's agreements are data-driven, long-term service arrangements that cover each phase of the litigation process, from claim file review and discovery to mediation, trial and post-trial motions. And our fixed-base billing program means one-entry billing at staggered points in the litigation process, saving your staff time and energy while giving your company certainty in budget and savings.
